

Sneak Peek at the New & Improved Science Online Available at Booth #321

New York, NY, June 11, 2015—We are pleased to announce a complete revision and upgrade of Infobase's award-winning Science Online coming this summer. ALA Annual attendees will have a special chance to preview the extensive enhancements at Infobase booth #321. The acclaimed Science Online is being rebuilt from the ground up and will feature a wide array of new features:

- New, dynamic design that facilitates STEM research and learning
- New, interactive experiments that replicate the in-class laboratory experience in a safe and user-friendly environment
- New curriculum tools and complete sources index
- Now includes the full, updated content from our unique, award-winning science eLearning Modules—including Educator Support materials
- New Topic Centers providing comprehensive coverage of the most studied science disciplines
- New and improved search options
- Improved functionality
- New tag “clouds” for all content, linking to other content with the same tags
- Improved mobile viewing for videos
- Dynamic citations in MLA, APA, and Chicago styles, with EasyBib integration for up-to-date citation creation and export
- Content is correlated to all major educational standards

Plus, this trusted resource continues to provide all of the essential information users need to research, study, and explore science.
