Reindex: A New Web Based ILS on the American Market

Reindex Library Management Services, based in Scandinavia, will present their web based ILS at the ALA Annual Conference in San Francisco.

Every job in a modern library, every kind of resource

Reindex is a web based library management service offering all the traditional functions of an ILS, plus many additional possibilities, such as a service for booking, and a document delivery service.

All major browsers are supported, and they are the only software required to use the system. As a result there are no software upgrade costs and no software distributions to be done in your library.

Getting started is as simple as signing up, sending us your files to convert, taking a short training course — and you can start using your new ILS!

Join the community. Reindex is used by more than 150 corporate libraries, special libraries, and libraries in secondary and higher education in Scandinavia, the Middle East, and Canada.

Please visit booth #348 at the exhibition for a chat and a demonstration.
